New dresses appear in the fashionable colors and are very popular. The popular shoe with the dude is the Louis Quinze which he call the "Low

Above it only a tiny rim of the white linen collar is visible on a very narrow flat plaiting of lace. This plaiting is removed when the corsage is worn by the dude, and the tiny rim of collar is encircled by a narrow tie. The effect is too sweet for

Most brilliant is an evening dress of steel filings and China ware, with steel and bras- fringes which look in an illuminated room like a moving mass of small electric lights and incandescent fireworks.

To wear with dresses which have officers collars, there are bronze, gold and silver brooche-, in Egyptian and antique designs. The two side pieces are in the same conceits, and they are secured, the one to the other, by a hook-and-eye, or by attaching the button on the sleeve of the officers' coat to the waist ornaments of the dress.

Black stockings are most in favor at present, in wool, cotton and satinalike; terra cotta shades are next in favor. Ladies | number of killed and wounded related only | will not propose a Zollverein to the Dutch Forms of Application for Space can be obtained ordered to receive full faith and credit by the who wear stockings all the year choose to the loss among the sailors. In summer there are many worn with small holes worked in the heel and toe. High shoes are almost invariably worn over this last style. HOOPS.

There is a great deal of talk about the tournure or crinolette. One modiste says one thing, and another, equally posted on the weighty mysteries of the fashionable future, declares something quite the reverse But, in spite of the emphatic denunciations of the tournure, and in the face and eyes of the disgust that is said royalty feels and expresses for this article of dress, the tournure yet holds its own. It lives, and it began, as the Nile is said to begin, in a very small way, (and like the Nile it begins in the wa(i)ste lands) and it has gone on developing itself (something like a ryzoophone). Now it can only be seen from a back view by the wearer, and very funny it is to see the wearer trying to take a "back view" of the one she is wearing. We never saw but one lady who could do so easily and gracefully, and she had a neck as long as a crane's, and as flexible as an owl's. If this stiff, unwieldy object will only keep within bounds and stay in the background, and not become aggressive and seek to encompass the wearer, and finally blossom out into a real old-fashioned hoop skirt of enormous proportions, there will be no great or emphatic objection made to it. Unless it be that when it is finally worn out and thrown into the back yard it will continue to be a man trap and a suare to whoever comes When thrown on to the dust cart near it. Otherwise the privilege will be suspended without | it will still continue to spring out in every direction, and when when finally shot on to the new-made land it will remain a nuisance for many years.

M. Lemry who negotiated the return of 70,000 Tunisians refuged in Tripolitania to their homes and alters free, supplies some interesting facts about that State. Bomba is the most beautiful harbor on the whole coast of northern Africa, which may explain why it makes the mouths of Italians water, despite its unpalatable name. Four-fifths of the trade is in the hands of the English, and Manchester goods there rule the coast. It takes two months to cross the desert to reach the inland villages of Soudan, and two years in the average time for the trip of Arab bagmen. If England makes a railway to Soudan she will monopolize the whole trade of Tripoli, and the result thus will be telt on M. Revieres, inland Alegerian Sea. Slave traffic is conducted on the sly; thus a political morabont bought his young Circassian wife for 200 Turkish pounds at Stamboul; she learnt music at Tripoli, and he was thereby able to sell her at a profit of 100 per cent. The population of Tripoli is 28,000, of whom 10 are French, 9 English, and not a single

Holidays.

Holidays are good things now and again. Shakespere commends sleep for knitting up 'the sleeve of care "-but holidays may said to unroll the tucked up sleeve of toil, and for a while the brain relieved from the routine of its accustomed labor, and the trained muscles allowed a little generous play renew their strength and vigor. Men will have holidays; and as many different men as there are, there are as many different ways of enjoying holidays. One man will pass his holiday in some such way as the farmer recommended to his boys when he asked them to "knock off work and go to piling wood," that is in toiling in some unaccustomed way. Dickens says that a bricklaver's idea of a holiday is to dress up in a suit of velveteens with high-lows and a spotted belcher handkerchief around his neck, and lean against a lamp post all

Boys, as a class, do more hard work on a holiday than at any other time. They realize that "the labor we delight in physics pain," and so they will tramp many weary miles and row in a boat other weary miles to go a-fishing (generally with an outcome that does not belie the usual "fisherman's luck"), or they will disport themselves in a match game ofbaseball, cricket, or some other equally exhilerating pastime that involves the expenditure of something like 200 indicated horse-power per hour of muscular energy, and throw in an amount of shouting and screaming that is appalling to older people. Hall of Harmony Lodge No. 3, I. O. O. F. HONOLULU, June 11, 1883. At a regular meeting held by the members of HAR-MONY LODGE No. 3, I.O. O. F., on the above date it was unanimously agreed to adopt the following resolu-

WHEREAS, it has pleased a Kind Providence to take Drugs. from our midst our worthy and beloved Brother T. A. Duport who departed this life on Sunday evening, June 3, 1883, after a lingering illness. Resolved, That it is but a just tribute to the memory of our late Brother to say that in regretting his removal from our midst we mourn for one who was in every way worthy of our regard and esteem, and as a member of our Order his companionship was ever dear and whose endeavors were at all times exerted for its welfare and prosperity. Resolved, That we sincerely condole with the widow and family of our deceased Brother, in this their hour of trial and affliction; and we would commend them for consolation to Him whose chastisements are meant in mercy, and who doeth all things for the best

Resolved, That this testimonial of our heartfelt sympathy and sorrow be recorded on our minutes, and that a copy be forwarded to the widow and family of our de-ceased Brother; and that the same be published in the city newspapers.
